HE TAKES A LIVELY INTEREST IN TO-DAT'S BLISSFUL EVENT.

The Judge Charges the Jury and the Argument Begins-Some Prespect that the Cas Will be Given to the Jury this Evening. Sr. Louis, June 1 .- When Maxwell was was brought into court this morning on the arm of the big Sheriff he had with him a copy of a morning newspaper. He seated himself was engaged when the Sheriff went to his cell.

turned to one of the reporters and said: "I have been reading about the coming mar-riage of the President of the United States. It's very interesting. I shall send this paper to my folks in Hyde, England."

He seemed greatly interested, and at length

Yet in the same paper was published the testimony of the physicians going to show that Maxwell had testified falsely when he said that Preller suffered from a disease, to relieve which Maxwell undertook to perform an operation which caused Prelier's death. Maxwell's counsel thinks that he is playing no part when he thus converses, but that it relieves him somewhat from the great nervous strain of the trial to have his attention even momentarily

The little prisoner paid the closest heed to the venerable and phlegmatic Judge Van Wagoner, while he read this morning the instructions of the Court to the jury. By the criminal ractice of Missouri, the Court instructs the jury as to the law immediately after the presentation of testimony is ended. Judge Van Wagoner read these instructions with the utst deliberation. They seemed to be as impartial as the fall of rain. Maxwell's counsel most deliboration. They seemed to be as impartial as the fall of rain. Maxwell's counsel were pleased, and the prosecution could not or did not find any fault.

The venerable Judge told the weary jury. first, that if they believed from the evidence that Hugh M. Brooks, alias Maxwell, did kill, with malice aforethought. Charles Arthur Proller in St. Louis on or prior to April 5, 1885, a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree should be returned; if the jury did not so believe from the evidence the defendant should be found not guilty. If they found that the defendant Brooks undertook to operate upon C. Arthur Prelier "for a disease and did administer chloroform during that operation so carelessly and recklossly that Prelier died from the effects, though Brooks did not intend to kill him, then the jury should find the defendant guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree, and either fix his punishment at two years in the penitentiary or six months in the city jail, or a fine of not less than $500; but if the jury believes that Brooks administered chloroform to Prelier in a careful manner and with Prelier's consent, then the jury should sequit."

Judge Van Wagoner also instructed that circumstantial evidence was competent when the facts established are inconsistent with any other theory than the defendant's guilt, and also that any statement made by the defendant in relation to the alleged crime should be considered by the jury. The Judge also instructed the jury that if the jury believes that the defendant did not flee to avoid arrest the fact should be considered in arriving at a verdict. These cover the important points in the instructions, which the Judge was an hour in reading.

structions, which the Judge was an nour in reading.

Stripped of the legal verbinge, the instructions simply amounted to this: It the jury believe from the evidence that Brooks, alias Maxwell, intended to kill Prelier, a verdict of guilty must be given. If the jury believe that Brooks accidentally killed Prelier by a receless and careless use of drugs, a verdict of mansiaughter must be returned and the punishment fixed by the jury. If the jury believe that Brooks administered chloroform carefully, with Preller's consent, a verdict of acquittal most be returned. The instruction of Judge Van Wagoner that flight raises the presumption of guilt will, ed. The instruction of Judge Van Wagoner that flight raises the presumption of guilt will, the presention believe, leave no room for doubt in the mind of the jury.

After the instructions were read, Assistant District Attorney Bishop addressed the jury. He was followed by Mr. Fauntierov for the defence. It is possible that the case may be given to the jury to-morrow evening.

THE FINEST ON PARADE.

Chief Murray Marches with 1,500 of his Men-Reviewed by Mayor Grace.

For the first time in nearly ten years uptown folk had a chance to see the police parade yesterday, and down-towners saw it also, for the starting point was the Battery, as usual. Over 1,500 policemen wearing new, or nearly new, uniforms and their white summer hats assembled there at 2 P. M., and almost immediately started up Broadway on their five-mile tramp. The column marched so quickly that when it reached Union square it had nearly an hour in which to get around to Madison square by way of Thirty-fourth street, and it accordingly had time to take quite a rest before turning in Fifth avenue andfpassing the reviewing stand at the Worth monument.

Mayor Grace didn't arrive at the reviewing stand until the clock was on the stroke of 4. and this forced the police to wait for some time after they had got into Fifth avenue. As soon as he arrived, however, a mounted policeman rode back with the intelligence, and the march was again taken up. Sergeant Revell on a gallant charger headed the procession. Behind him, eleven alreast, rode the mounted policemen. A section of the Seventh Regiment

Behind him, sloven abreast, rode the mounted policemen. A section of the Seventh Regiment band marched at the hocis of the horsemen and then marched the soiltary figure of Superintendent Murray. After him came Inspector Dilks, who commanded the First Battalion, with Capt. Fat Jack Sanders as Lieutenant-Colonel and Capt. Siebert as Major. Eight companies of forty men each, marchine twenty abreast formed the battalion. They were commanded in the order named by Capt. Kilhilea. Capt. Robbins, Sergeant Grant, Capt. Hooker. Capt. Cortright, Sergeant Grone, Sergeant Combs, and Capt. Yule.

When Inspector Byrnes appeared at the head of the Second Battalion, the clapping which greeted him marred the melody of another section of the Seventh Regiment band which preceded. His Lieutenant-Colonel was Capt. Copeland, and his Major. Capt. Garland. His eight companies were commanded by Capt. Washburne. Capt. Brogan, Sergeant Kellaher. Capt. Williams. Captain Eakins Sergeant Westerveit, Sergeant Brooks, and Capt. McDonnell, popularly known as Lightning Charley. Some more of the Seventh's band preceded the Third Battalion, which was Coloneled by Inspector Steers, with Capt. Alleire as Lieutenant-Colonel, and Capt. McCullagh, the eider, as Major. The company commanders were Capt. Gunner, Capt. McCullagh, the eider, as Major. The company commanders were Capt. Gunner, Capt. McCullagh, the sounger, Sergeant Knass of the Eidridge street squad. Capt. Clinchy, Capt. Webb, Sergeant Stowart, Capt. Maakin, and Captain Berghold. A deg decorated with thiry flags, which scammered between Capt. McCullagh, the sounger, Sergeant Knass of the Eidridge street squad. Capt. Clinchy, Capt. Webb, Sergeant Stowart, Capt. Maakin, and Captain with Capt. McIlwain for his Lieutenant-Colonel and Capt. IS IT CAUSED BY THE OLD WELL? Fatal Plague of Diphtheria in the West 104th Street School. Eight years ago, when David E. Gaddis came Principal of Grammar School 54, at 104th street and Tonth avenue, he found in the cool depths of the cellar of the school building a well of water of remarkable clearness and purity. Mr. Gaddis's predecessors had enjoyed many a refreshing draught from the well, and Mr. Gaddis had two years in which to enjoy his Then David H. Knapp, representing the Board Trustees, ordered the well filled up and capped with a big bluestone slab. This was done be cause Mr. Knapp and his fellow trustees learned that the drainage pipes of the school building. then unconnected with the sewerage in the street, very often found an outlet in the well that had been so often lauded for its limpidity.

The well had become a dim memory to the residents of that part of the Twelfth ward, and even to Mr. Gaddis, until a week ago. Then August Rupert, a bright little tot in Miss Eliza R. Knapp's primary department, died of diph-R. Knapp's primary department, died of dipprinteria after three days' iliness. The next day five-year-old Albert Johnson, a brother of another of Miss Knapp's scholars died from the same disease. The two flaxen-haired children of Baker Gottlob Klein, also in Miss Knapp's department, and who lived in one of the seven big apartment houses just over the way from the school, were stricken down with diphtheria. By this time the old residents began to recall the old weil in the cellar of the school building, but the alarm did not become a diphtheritie stampede until brown-haired and brown-oyed John Martin Bruns and his two baby brothers died of the disease within a few hours of each other. Mr. G. Bruns, the latter's father, runs the grocery store adjoining the school, and little John Martin, though but 5 years old, had been one of Miss Knapp's scholars for twelve days. Mr. Bruns livesjin one of the seven big flats over the war, and the funeral of the last of the baby brothers took place on Monday. By that time lotters from anxious parants began to pour in upon Principal Gaddis. The old woil in the cellar was accepted as the cause of all the trouble, and the explanations of Mr. Gaddis did not avail, and many parents withdrew their children. As soon as the extent of the parental anxiety dawned upon him he dismissed thirty-seven of the schoiars who had played with the affected children and told them not to return until they brought a doctor's certificate showing that all danger of contagion was gone. theria after three days' illness. The next day was gone.

Twenty-five of the dismissals were from Miss Knapp's department, containing six hundred children of 5 to 8 years of age. Mr. Gaddis said yesterday that many of them had returned with the required dector's certificate. Many parents, however, said they would not permit their children to return to the school until the local Board of Trustees had properly filled up the well. Principal Gaddis, although the well had not all been filled up, could not attribute the deaths to it, and inclined to the ominion that the epidemic had its starting point in the tearing up of the streets in the vicinity, the hewly opened sewerage mains, and the broken ground for building purposes.

Janitor William D. Deblois, who used to drink from the well, and whose kitchen and sitting room have been within a dozen feet of it for the last twelve years, was quite positive that the big rain storms in May had soaked through into the cellar and had filled with stagnant water the five feet that remained unfilled of Trustees had heard of the deaths and prevalence of diphtheria. He said he would see that the well was properly filled up if he had to pay for it himself. Thomas J. Nealis, Sanitary Engineer of the Board of Education, examined the building last September, and reported it in good condition.

SING SING FOR BUDDENSIEK.

The Builder of Mad Houses in the Tombe, with Hardly a Hope of Escape. The Supreme Court, General Term, Judges Daniels, Brady, and Macomber, handed down resterday a unanimous decision confirming the conviction of Charles A. Buddensiek, the builder of mud houses. A row of his houses tumbled down and killed Louis Waither, and he vas convicted of mansinughter and sentenced to 10 years in State prison. The Judges say that the conviction was fully warranted by the evidence.

Buddensiek has been at large under $30,000 ball. Several days ago the District Attorney notified Inspector Byrnes to keep a watch on notified Inspector Byrnes to keep a watch on him lest he should leave town. When the adverse decision was given yesterday Buddensiek was arrested at 11 Å. M. at his house, 244 East Seventy-aeventh atreet, on a bench warrant from Recorder Smyth.

In the District Attorney's office Buddensiek was joined by August Piath, the Park row divekeeper. Plath gave $4,800 bail the other day for Swindler Orrin Skinner, who thereupon promptly skipped. Plath and Buddensiek had a long talk, but as Buddensiek's counsel did not procure a stay of proceedings, pending appeal to the Court of Appeals, no offer of bail was made.

Buddensiek, who has grown fat since his trial, was taken to the Tombs. Warden Finn assigned him to cell 4, the hospital cell, on the first tier. This is the roomiest cell in the prison.

first tier. This is the roomiest cell in the prison.

"The District Attorney," said Buddenstek,
"was deceived by any one who told him that I would run away. I hadn't the slightest idea of running away. The prospect of ten years in State prison, or twice ten years, wouldn't be enough to make me run away from Now York, where I've spent the greater part of my life, and where all that I have in the world is. Besides, I wouldn't put my bondsmen in a hole for $30,000."

Today Ligwers Newcomba and Brooke will day Lawyers Newcombe and Brooke will apply to the Supreme Court for a stay, to en-able them to appeal and for Buddensiek's new release on bail. If the stay is denied Budden-siek must go straight to Sing Sing.

THE MAYOR AFTER GEN. SHALER,

Proposing to Try Him Without Walting for the Courts to Try Again.

Mayor Grace decided yesterday to go on with the charges preferred by him against Gen. Alexander Shaler last December, calling upon the accused to show cause why he should not be removed from the office of President of the Board of Health. The hearing has been postponed from time to time, to await the result of Gen postponed from time to time, to await the result of Gen. Shaler's trials for bribery.

Col. Blus, as counsel for Gen. Shaler, made a formal application yesterday for a suspension of the proceedings before the Mayor until Gen. Shaler's third trial, or some or many refers to the proceedings.

Col. Blus interposed a demutra, the foreign there was nothing in the acts charged to give the Mayor jurisdiction, and that the offcuce charged was against Blute laws, and punishable, if at all, by State authority.

On the advice of Corporation Counsel Lacombe that these points deserve consideration, Mayor Grace granted an adjournment to Monday next at 11 A.M. Beginning then, he intimated, the hearing will go on from day to day until a conclusion.

Mr. Weller is Not Surrogate, After All. Charles De Kay Townsend was elected Surrogate of Queens county five years ago last fall to fill the place of Alexander Hagner, who died in his first year of office. The Attorney-General directed a Surro-gate to be elected last fall, holding that Mr. Townsend was chosen only to fill the unexpired term of six years for which Mr. Hagner was elected. A. N. Weller was elected, and he and Mr. Townsend submitted the question to the Guerenl Term of the Supreins Court lisst February, and it decided that Mr. Townsend was elected for the remainder of Mr. Hagner's term only, and that Mr. Weller was therefore the Surrogate. Mr. Weller bereipon assumed the office. Vesterday the Court of Appeals overruied the General Term, deciding that Mr. Townsend was elected for the full term of six year. Mr. Townsend will, therefore, supersede Mr. Weller and hold office until the close of this year.

This decision site settles the question as to the term for which Surrogate Lott of Kings county was elected instead of simply serving out the unexpired term of the late Surrogate Bergen, Mr. Lott will be burrogate for six years.

Mrs. Treslowitz Arrested for Arson. John Isselhart, a tenant in the tenement at 413 East Fifteenth street, saw smoke issuing from rooms occupied by Mrs. Anni: Treslowitz on Monday night. He opened the door and saw that the woodwork around the foor was on fire. Two men were trying to put out the flames, and Mrs. Treslowitz stood in the centre of the names, and see, treatowitz stood in the centre of the coom crying.

"Leave it alone, you fools! I am insured."

"Leave it alone, you fools! I am insured."

Taschart ran out and called the police. They put out he fire and arrested Mrs. Treatowitz. The two men inad lisappeared. The police also learned that Mrs. Treatowitz was insured for $500, while her property was not worth $100. worth $100.

In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday the woman and that the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp which John Wincoung had thrown at her. She was held, firs Treslowitz had been notified on Menday afternoon hat also would have to move.

Mayor Grace's Wedding Sermon. Miss Clara E. Thurn and James W. Patterson of this city were married by the Mayor yesterday. The witnesses were Ernest Rague and E. B. George, Jr. The coremony was performed in the Mayor's private office. The bridegroom were a black suit. The bride was ressed in blue and wore a diamond bracelet. They were married with a ring, which the bridegroom kept until the last moment. The Mayor, on finishing the cremony saud:

Well. I hope you will be happy and have a good time. If you have done as well as tid you are all right. have been married twenty years, and I have not once had cause to regret it.
